

Practice Chat Decision

DECISION MAKING · TWO COLUMNS

Bianca opens the soccer team group text as replies stack under the rescheduled practice notice. The coach moved practice to the side field because the gym floor is being sealed. Everyone must confirm attendance and say who can carry the cones from the equipment cage. Bianca also has to hand a permission slip to the office before the late bus. The chat keeps asking for an answer while the office line starts to form. She can send a quick clear message now, or wait and risk confusing the plan.

Sort each choice into the column where it fits best.

WORKS	DOESN'T WORK

- 1. Reply that Bianca can attend, cannot take cones, and is stopping at the office before the late bus.
- 2. Ask if someone already near the equipment cage can take the cones, then leave the chat alone.
- 3. Wait until the office stop is done, then send one accurate answer if the line moves fast.
- 4. Send only “probably” with no answer about the cones.
- 5. Volunteer for the cones before knowing whether the office stop will leave enough time.
- 6. Answer every new message separately while standing in the office line.

Think about it: Which detail makes Bianca's message easier for the group to act on?
